

What is this new Coronavirus?

The virus was actually given the name Severe Acute Respiratory Coronavirus-2 (SARS-CoV-2). No one needs to know that name. It was identified as the cause of a respiratory illness outbreak first detected in China in December 2019. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has the most up-to-date information on COVID-19 cases in the United States.

The illness that it causes has been named Coronavirus Disease-19 (COVID-19). This new virus has not been in humans before. Early studies suggest that it likely originated from a bat virus that mixed with a human virus.

What are the symptoms of COVID-19?

The most common symptoms are a fever that comes and goes, then cough, tiredness, and shortness of breath. Symptoms like runny nose and sore throat are less common in COVID-19. The CDC will update the symptoms as more studies are available.

What is the situation in the US and Utah with COVID-19?

This seems to change hourly right now. Cases are spreading quickly. Both the CDC and the Utah Department of Health are updating frequently.

Who is the most vulnerable to become very sick from COVID-19?

Adults older than 60 years of age and those with underlying medical conditions have shown more serious coronavirus symptoms. The CDC is recommending if you have these risks to not go out as much and when you are out distance yourself as best as you can from others. Also, be prepared to stay in.